Using a new ride to stop bullets before they fly

Philadelphia. Members of Philadelphia CeaseFire have a new vehicle to aid in their quest to stop street violence.

Members of Philadelphia CeaseFire outside the group's renovated Winnebago on Wednesday. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

The new CeaseFire bus doesn't exactly blend in.

The brightly painted Winnebago has the group's message boiled down to its simplest form in block letters on the side: "Stop. Shooting. People."

"It's amazing how powerful the word is," said Robert Harris, 38, an outreach worker with the CeaseFire, which sends its orange-clad members to the locations of shootings to defuse emotions before retaliatory fire break out.

"We talk to them, we cool them down. We say, 'If you kill him, you die too. Because when you go to jail — you're dead,'" Harris said. "By the time we're done, they don't wanna kill him. It's an amazing thing."

Members say the Winnebago, which was used to attend a vigil in Kensington on Wednesday night, makes the mission more visible.

"This allows us to go out into the neighborhoods," said program manager Robert Wagner, 47. "It also allows us to bring people back into the bus, if they don't feel comfortable with people seeing us talking to them."

In violence-prone Philadelphia, CeaseFire has been involved in seven to 10 mediations each month this year, Wagner said.

The City of Brotherly Love has seen 228 murders this year, a 36 percent drop from 2007. Last year 247 people were murdered in Philadelphia, the lowest toll since 1967, and down from 332 killings in 2012.

Philadelphia Director of Public Safety Mike Resnick says he'd like more proof CeaseFire reduces violence.

"It's an interesting model, where people who are from the neighborhood, and used to be in the life, can get to individuals and relate to them," Resnick said. "But we're not running out celebrating yet."

CeaseFire supervisor Quinzel Tomoney, 43, said, "Maybe there was one shooting out there, but if we hadn't been there, there would have been three."

Tomoney, who was previously involved with drug dealing, left prison in 2005. Now, he says, he's trying to "live a right life."

"We need the communities to help us," Tomoney said. "Just call us: 'Listen, my son got a gun, come over here and talk to him.' ... Because once he starts shooting, it's out of our hands," Tomoney said. "Cops are gonna get him. Before the cops get him, we still have a chance to work with him and stop the retaliation."

How CeaseFire works

Philadelphia CeaseFire is based at Temple University's Center for Bioethics, Urban Health and Policy.

- Temple is also studying the effectiveness of CeaseFire for reducing levels of violence.
- The group is mostly active in the 22nd and part of the 39th police districts but will go anywhere in Philadelphia.
- Call CeaseFire at (215) 913-6917.

Quoted

"The people we go to, they know we was in the streets. ... I changed my life, and I don't ever want to go back being the person I was."

PHL Airport

Baggage crews plan work stoppage

More than 100 baggage handlers at Philadelphia International Airport plan to stop work and demonstrate for higher wages outside the airport Thursday morning at 7 a.m.

The walkout follows the firing of worker Misha Williams after she demonstrated for higher wages, according to an email written by local 32BJ SEIU, a property services' workers union representing the workers.

By the numbers

$10.88
The wage they want

$7.25
Their current hourly wage

The workers say their employer, PrimeFlight, is disregarding an executive order by Mayor Michael Nutter issued in May raising the minimum wage for city contractors.

U.S. Airways and American Airlines, which use PrimeFlight, said the demonstration won't affect their passengers.

"We won't have a disruption in our services," said Victoria Lupica, a spokeswoman for the two airlines.

"We're not replacing them, but our employees will supplement their service."

The 2015 mayoral race gains speed with two more runners

Politics. Here's the lowdown on who may — and who may not — run for mayor in 2015.

With former District Attorney Lynne Abraham making her intentions official Wednesday afternoon, and State Sen. Anthony Hardy Williams announcing his candidacy later that evening, the road to City Hall is getting crowded.

Abraham took a shot at Williams, telling reporters after her announcement today that she's against private-sector involvement in the city's troubled public schools, Phillymag.com reported.

In September, Terry Gillen, former head of the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority, and local defense attorney Ken Trujillo said they'd seek the mayoralty.

Quote.

"What I'm against is selling wholesale the entire public school system to the highest bidder."
Abraham

Other names being heard on talk shows and bandied by hometown politicos (but not yet confirmed) include City Council President Darrell Clarke and longtime City Councilman Jim Kenney.

Newcomer Doug Oliver, PGW executive and former spokesman for Mayor Michael Nutter, is also considering a push for the city's top job. And, perennial candidate Sam Katz continues to lurk in the shadows.

Former mayor and governor Ed Rendell told Newsworks and Philadelphia Magazine that he'd rather quarterback Eagles postgame shows than City Hall. Former City Councilman Frank Rizzo, former City Solicitor Nelson Diaz and former State Sen. T. Milton Street Sr., have also expressed interest but have yet to commit.

Upper Darby. Cops: Man rapes sister, 5, passes on Chlamydia

An18-year-old man was arrested Tuesday on charges of raping his 5-year-old sister after police found he carried the same sexually transmitted disease that the girl was suffering, Upper Darby Police said.

Police identified the man only as Luis, to protect the victim, and released his photo.

The girl's mother took her daughter to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia Tuesday after she was exhibiting odd behavior. Health care workers tested the girl and found traces of Chlamydia.

Police Superintendent Michael Chitwood said the daughter told her mother that her brother "stuck his pee-pee in her private parts."

Luis was tested and found to be a carrier of the disease, and was arrested. Chitwood said Luis denies the rape.

Luis / UPD

"It's interesting," Chitwood said. "He's from Ecuador, the whole family's from Ecuador, and he wanted to know if he could be shipped to Ecuador and tried in Ecuador and if he was found guilty could he serve prison in Ecuador."

Chitwood added: "My statement to the detectives was, if Ecuador's gonna come and fly him out I'll get rid of him," he said. "But that ain't gonna happen. He's going away for a long time. Hopefully."

Residents: Casino will make S. Philly worse

Sports Complex. Some residents say the casino will just bring more problems.

Rendering of the planned Live! Hotel & Casino, which was awarded the city's second casino license Tuesday / PROVIDED

Barbara Capozzi is not happy.

"Common sense, which I don't know why they call it common because nobody's got it, but common sense tells you that your life's not going to get better because a casino's near you," she said Wednesday. "It's going to get worse."

Capozzi, who has led the opposition to a South Philadelphia casino, spoke a day after the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board awarded the city's second license to a partnership of the Cordish Companies and Greenwood Gaming, LLC.

Quoted

"I don't think there is reason to panic, but put it this way, I'm building a home in the neighborhood, and if I had known for sure, I wouldn't have." Capozzi

"The traffic's going to get worse, the people in the neighborhood are going to get worse," she said.

Their $425 million proposal, Live! Hotel & Casino, is slated for the site of the Holiday Inn at the Sports Complex.

"So you have somebody who maybe doesn't like it, but by and large we have enjoyed community support," said Cordish Companies Chairman David Cordish.

In nearby Atlantic City, New Jersey, the Trump Taj Mahal Casino Resort said last week it will close in December, making it the fifth of the city's 12 casinos to shut down this year, AP reported.

Obama to announce go-it-alone plan on immigration tonight

Immigration. President's plan on deportations will aid immigrants, set up confrontation with Congress.

President Barack Obama will outline a plan on Thursday to relax U.S. immigration policy and grant relief from deportation to as many as 5 million undocumented immigrants in a go-it-alone move that will deepen a partisan divide with Republicans.

The White House said Obama will deliver a televised speech on Thursday night laying out the plan, followed by a trip to Las Vegas on Friday to build support. Nevada is home to the highest proportion of undocumented immigrants in the country.

Frustrated by years of congressional inaction on what most in Washington agree is a broken immigration system, Obama said in a Web video posting that he is now prepared to act unilaterally.

"So what I'm going to be laying out is the things that I can do with my lawful authority as president to make the system work better even as I continue to work with Congress and encourage them to get a bipartisan, comprehensive bill that can solve the entire problem," he said. REUTERS

Republicans stop NSA overhaul reform

Privacy. Plan to rein in government data collection fails amid fears of harming anti-terror efforts.

A bill to end the National Security Agency's bulk collection of telephone records failed on a procedural vote in the Senate on Tuesday after senior Republicans said it would benefit enemies of the United States, including Islamic State militants.

The "USA Freedom Act" was supported by an unusual coalition of Democrats and conservative Republicans concerned about Americans' privacy, but failed 58 to 42, falling short of the 60 votes needed to move ahead.

The measure is unlikely to become law anytime soon, as Republicans will hold a majority of seats in the Senate after Jan. 1.

Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell, the future Senate Majority Leader, came out strongly against the bill in a Senate speech on Tuesday morning, concerns matched by several hawkish Republicans, including former government officials.

The legislation was the first considered by the full Senate that addressed privacy concerns raised after revelations by former NSA contractor Edward Snowden showing intelligence was collecting and storing communications metadata, such as the records of millions of Americans' telephone calls. On edge. Israelis, Palestinians seek personal safety in holy city

On edge but faithful to their religious routine, worshippers returned on Wednesday to the Jerusalem synagogue where four rabbis and a policeman were killed in a Palestinian attack a day earlier.

The bloodstains had been washed away, but four memorial candles burned as about a dozen men chanted their daily prayers and police newly stationed outside guarded the Kehillat Bnei Torah congregation.

Palestinians in Israeli-annexed East Jerusalem also voiced fears for their safety amid the surge in violence, as police set up checkpoints in their neighborhoods and tethered surveillance balloons floated overhead.

Violence in Jerusalem has surged since July, when a Palestinian teen was burned to death by Israeli assailants in an alleged revenge for the abduction and killing of three Jewish teens by militants in the West Bank. REUTERS

"It's a little scary, but we're going to have to go on with our lives. We're staying here, we're not moving anywhere."

Murder

Honduran beauty queen found dead

A Honduran beauty queen was found murdered just days before she was due to compete in the Miss World pageant in London, police said on Wednesday.

The bodies of Maria Jose Alvarado, 19, and her sister Sofia, 23, were found buried near a river in the mountainous region of Santa Barbara in western Honduras, said Leandro Osorio, head of the criminal investigation unit.

Alvarado, a student who aspired to become a career diplomat, had been due to take part in the Miss World events that start on Thursday and culminate in the final in London on Dec. 14.

She and her sister had been missing since Thursday, when they were seen leaving a party in a car without a license plate in Santa Barbara, a coffee-growing region where drug gangs are active. REUTERS

1 Justin Bieber goes sober for Jesus

Canada's goodwill ambassador has reportedly been devoting his time to celebrity pastor Carl Lentz of Hillsong Church. And by "devoting," I mean he "exiled himself from friends, alcohol, weed and everything else that doesn't involve the good Lord" for two weeks at Lentz's Rancho Mirage compound near Palm Springs, California, at least according to TMZ. I don't wish ill on the kid, but I'd rather the partying pop star with a Napoleon complex not go all Kirk Cameron on us. Come back to the bong, Bieber, and all will be forgiven.

2 New Sexiest Man Alive drunk with power

Chris Hemsworth is officially People magazine's new Sexiest Man Alive, and unfortunately it looks like the "Thor" star plans on using his newfound powers for evil, not good. "I'll put it on the mantelpiece just to remind [my wife] in the coming years," he tells the magazine about how he plans to use the accolade. "I can just say to her, 'Now remember, this is what the people think, so I don't need to do the dishes anymore, I don't need to change [diapers]. I'm above that. I've made it now." I'd rethink that strategy if were you, buddy.

'Text me Merry Christmas'

"Frozen" and "Veronica Mars" star Kristen Bell has teamed up with a cappella group Straight No Chaser for the new instant holiday classic we all deserve, "Text Me Merry Christmas." The ridiculously catchy tune addresses our growing dependence on mobile technology in place of good old-fashioned personal communication, but it's also kind of sweet. Could've done without the a cappella, though, honestly. Still, 'tis the season!

3 Ellen DeGeneres and Portia de Rossi wish you a Kardashian Christmas

It might not break the Internet, but Ellen DeGeneres is looking to at least break her friends' mantels this Christmas, thanks to her latest attempt at a pop culture holiday card. The gag greeting, unveiled on her talk show, features DeGeneres and wife Portia de Rossi Photoshopped onto Kim Kardashian's body from, you know, that photo.

DeGeneres and de Rossi have previously used Kardashian as a holiday foil, making a card that spoofed Kanye West's nude motorcycle riding in the "Bound 2" video. Anyway, now they're wishing you a shiny New Year, so there you go.

Kardashian is the butt of DeGeneres's card. / TWITTER, @THEELLENSHOW

ADMIT ONE

Metro rounds up what's in cinemas this week.

MATT PRIGGE
matt.prigge@metro.us

People tend to find anything "Mockingjay" star Jennifer Lawrence does endearing, so here's an image of her in a jacket looking at a white rose. / MURRAY CLOSE

1 'The Hunger Games: Mockingjay — Part 1' Suzanne Collins' dystopian saga is the latest to have one of its books divided in two, though this means all the big action is pushed off until "Part 2," which won't come out for another year. But hey, there's plenty of business about the grunt work of revolutions!

2 'Foxcatcher' A comedic actor (Steve Carell) and a stud (Channing Tatum) try to prove their dramatic bona fides in this stranger-than-fiction docudrama, with the former playing deranged and moneyed murderer John Du Pont (whose victim is played by Mark Ruffalo).

3 'The Homesman' Tommy Lee Jones gets back in the saddle of both the Western genre and filmmaking, directing himself as a wild frontiersman forced to team up with a resilient prairie woman (Hilary Swank) on a mission 'cross some purdy vistas.

4 'The Better Angels' Despite Terrence Malick's acclaim, the director has few imitators. One of them is A.J. Edwards, his frequent editor and collaborator, who made this Malick-style look at Abraham Lincoln's backwoods childhood, featuring Jason Clarke and Brit Marling as his parents.

5 'Keep on Keepin' On' The market is flooded with docs rightly championing underacknowledged musicians. The latest lets you know that Clark Terry is a jazz god, and more than just the guy who, once upon a time, mentored greats Miles Davis and Quincy Jones.

6 'Dumb and Dumber To' Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels (and filmmakers Peter and Bobby Farrelly) dust off some 20-year-old jokes, but can it ever really be as funny as any episode of "The Newsroom"?

7 'Beyond the Lights' "Belle"'s Gugu Mbatha-Raw plays a reluctant Beyonce type torn between fame and an unfailing — and often shirtless — gentleman (Nate Parker) who wants her to give it all up and defy her stage mom (Minnie Driver).

Interview. Arquette calls photo leak 'societal molestation'

Since signing on to star in the upcoming "CSI: Cyber," Patricia Arquette has gotten a new look at the dark side of technology. "We brought these devices into our homes, but the things that they're capable of are also terrifying," she says.

PATRICIA ARQUETTE
GETTY IMAGES

When it comes to the celebrity nude photo leak from earlier this year, Arquette sees fault in the public.

"I think there's a real love-hate relationship that people have with celebrities. If it was wives of army soldiers in Afghanistan or Iraq that had their nude photos taken that they'd sent their husbands, I think there might have been a different response from the public," Arquette says. "As an actor, you do spend months away from your partner. And to maintain fidelity with each other, you want to share intimacies with your beloved, and there's nothing deviant about that. The deviant thing is when other people feel they have a right to impose themselves into your private sexuality.

She adds: "Basically, I consider it a societal molestation when people share other people's sexuality that they didn't give to them." NED EHRBAR

Q&A BON JOVI GIVES BACK

JON BON JOVI
PROVIDED

Honor. The musician and philanthropist talks getting the Marian Anderson Award.

Jon Bon Jovi was given the 2014 Marian Anderson Award on Tuesday for his work helping the homeless and the hungry through his JBJ Soul Foundation. The award, named for the African-American Philly native cherished for her singing and her civil rights advocacy, honors artists doing humanitarian work. Backstage at the Kimmel Center, Bon Jovi chatted about receiving the honor.

Cory Booker compared what you do to what Frederick Douglass said of Abraham Lincoln's "sacred efforts" toward equality. When do you know that you must meet a new challenge, such as when your housing efforts paired with those with HIV/AIDS?
His comparison was extreme. With housing for HIV/AIDS patients, they needed to leave the hospital and be somewhere nearby for treatment. I didn't have the medical background or wherewithal to help other than with housing. These issues are simple math. I can get money. If I don't have it, I can earn it. If I can't earn it, I'll figure [out] a way.

Mayor Nutter, Bon Jovi and Nina Tinari at the Marian Anderson Award at the award gala. / PROVIDED

True to his roots

You've built houses from coast to coast, but your focus has remained in the area where you grew up. Why, other than comfort, do you focus energies here?
This is who I am. Who says you can't go home? I'm not that Los Angeles guy. Philly's half of me, Jersey's the other half.

During your speech, you mentioned never facing disadvantages, not having to hide your skin color or your religion. Was honoring people who didn't have your advantages instilled in you by your parents?
I was born into the Kennedy era of Camelot, where everybody could achieve their dreams. ... When I was young, I was self-centered. Now, if I was still that guy at 52, it would have been a life unfulfilled. I would be embarrassed. ... I've become socially conscious, and feel the need to contribute — to do more than sing.

What can you say to fans getting involved —
Stop there. That's the answer. Find what moves you. We live in a "me" world. We need to live in a "we" world.

Step it up with cashmere

Wardrobe. How to care for the luxury winter staple.

Just like her sweaters, Angela Bell was made in Hawick, Scotland, where high-quality cashmere has been produced since the 1800s. "My parents worked in the industry, my grandparents, too, so it's kind of in my blood," she explains. A senior designer at Pringle of Scotland, she decided in 2000 to launch her own label, Queene and Belle. Around the same time, cashmere started to become more accessible and used by mass retailers. "For years, it was only made in Scotland and Italy, but in the last 15 to 20 years, cashmere has been made in other countries like China, which have brought the costs down," she says. Although it's now readily available, it's not throwaway fashion. To help sift the rough from the smooth, Bell shares her guide to cashmere.

ELODIE NOËL, MWN
@ MetroPhilly
letters@metro.us

How to wash

"Hand washing is great — use a mild hand wash soap or special cashmere one," advises Bell. "Soak the garment, then gently agitate it in the water. Rinse in clean warm water until no soap remains, then squeeze out the water." But never wring your cashmere items, she warns. It stretches the garment and the fibers. To get it back to its natural shape, just give your sweater a shake. "Then lay it flat to dry. You can give it a gentle spin in the washing machine first," Bells says. For a finishing touch, bust out the iron. "But don't iron directly on cashmere, or any kind of wool, as it burns the fiber," says Bell. "Use a damp lightweight cloth and lay it on top of the sweater, then press with an iron."

Post-wear tips

Don't leave your luxe cashmere lying around the house, says the expert. "Fold it up and keep it in a sealable bag away from the dreaded moths that like to eat the fabric," she says. "And keep a cedar ball in the bag as an extra safety measure." Another tip: "Wash your cashmere regularly, as it will revitalize the fibers and keep any pilling to a minimum," says Bell.

ANGELA BELL / PROVIDED

PLUS

Before you buy

What to look for

"Make sure the composition label reads 100 percent cashmere, simply because there are an awful lot of cashmere mixes out there," says Bell. "Make sure the garment has a close, even knit. Always remember a good cashmere shouldn't be too hairy, fuzzy or overly soft. It also needs to have the correct twist per inch: If it's too tight, the garment feels too hard, and if it's too loose, it will pill easily."

Single on Thanksgiving? Here's how to talk about it

Families. A life coach explains how to handle awkward relationship conversations.

Try not to throw your drink at anyone if they ask about your relationship status. / PHOTOS.COM

No matter how much you love your family, gathering together for Thanksgiving can be a stressful experience — particularly if you're single and don't feel like talking about your personal life over dinner.

"I would just say to your family 'Thank you for caring,'" says Sonia Choquette, a life coach and the author of "Walking Home: A Pilgrimage From Humbled to Healed." "Don't get defensive. Just say, 'I'm so grateful that you care about me. Being single is a choice that I am making because it's good for me right now.'"

Choquette offers these pointers for having an emotionally healthy holiday with your fam.

Think the best of their intentions

"With families, generally we do love each other," she says. "Your family isn't going to set you up to fail."

It might be a good idea to call your parents before Thanksgiving and tell them that. "What you want to do is say, 'I am in a difficult period right now, but I'm really looking forward to coming home.'"

Change the subject

"You play a role in how your family treats you," says Choquette. "Be the person who asks lots of questions. Everyone is the star of their own world, so you can turn the situation around."

Be kind to yourself

Remember not to assume that everyone is judging you, says Choquette. "It's really important to recognize that those thoughts are fears, not facts," she adds. "We have this phony idealism that 'When I meet the one, everything is going to be perfect,' but that's not true."

Choquette suggests taking a realistic look around you. "Relationships, you have to remember — whether they are friends or a couple or family — are just two complicated people trying to find common ground," she notes.

Prepare yourself

Say things out loud

"Before you go, acknowledge your fears," advises Choquette. "Say 'My fear is that I am being left behind,' [for example]. I have found that if you acknowledge them out loud and empty the garbage of your fears, things will be better. This is just a temporary experience."

FOR ADULTS WITH TYPE 2 DIABETES
Januvia® works when my blood sugar is HIGH...
...and works less when my blood sugar is LOW.
Actor portrayal.

JANUVIA works by enhancing your body's own ability to lower blood sugar.

- JANUVIA is a prescription pill you take once a day.
- JANUVIA, along with diet and exercise, helps lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause blood sugar going too low (hypoglycemia), because it works less when blood sugar is low.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause weight gain.

JANUVIA (jah-NEW-vee-ah) should not be used in patients with type 1 diabetes or with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in the blood or urine). If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas), it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting it while taking JANUVIA.

Selected Risk Information About JANUVIA

Serious side effects can happen in people who take JANUVIA, including pancreatitis, which may be severe and lead to death. Before you start taking JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you've ever had pancreatitis. Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

Do not take JANUVIA if you are allergic to any of its ingredients, including sitagliptin. Symptoms of serious allergic reactions to JANUVIA, including rash, hives, and swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty breathing or swallowing, can occur. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away.

Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis, have been reported.

If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include headache, drowsiness, weakness, dizziness, confusion, irritability, hunger, fast heart beat, sweating, and feeling jittery.

Please read the Medication Guide on the adjacent page for more detailed information.

Your doctor may do blood tests before and during treatment with JANUVIA to see how well your kidneys are working. Based on these results, your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA. The most common side effects of JANUVIA are upper respiratory tract infection, stuffy or runny nose and sore throat, and headache.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Pay as little as $5 per prescription.*

Visit Januvia.com/savings

*Maximum savings are limited. Not valid for patients with Medicare or other Government Program insurance. Other eligibility restrictions and Terms and Conditions apply.

Talk to your doctor about JANUVIA today.

Medication Guide

JANUVIA® (jah-NEW-vee-ah) (sitagliptin) Tablets

Read this Medication Guide carefully before you start taking JANUVIA and each time you get a refill. There may be new information. This information does not take the place of talking with your doctor about your medical condition or your treatment. If you have any questions about JANUVIA, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?

Serious side effects can happen in people taking JANUVIA, including inflammation of the pancreas (pancreatitis) which may be severe and lead to death.

Certain medical problems make you more likely to get pancreatitis.

Before you start taking JANUVIA:

Tell your doctor if you have ever had

- pancreatitis
- stones in your gallbladder (gallstones)
- a history of alcoholism
- high blood triglyceride levels
- kidney problems

Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

What is JANUVIA?

- JANUVIA is a prescription medicine used along with diet and exercise to lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with type 1 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in your blood or urine).
- If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas) in the past, it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting pancreatitis while you take JANUVIA.
- It is not known if JANUVIA is safe and effective when used in children under 18 years of age.

Who should not take JANUVIA?

Do not take JANUVIA if:

- you are allergic to any of the ingredients in JANUVIA. See the end of this Medication Guide for a complete list of ingredients in JANUVIA.

Symptoms of a serious allergic reaction to JANUVIA may include:

- rash
- raised red patches on your skin (hives)
- swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty in breathing or swallowing

What should I tell my doctor before taking JANUVIA?

Before you take JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you:

- have or have had inflammation of your pancreas (pancreatitis).
- have kidney problems.
- have any other medical conditions.
- are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if JANUVIA will harm your unborn baby. If you are pregnant, talk with your doctor about the best way to control your blood sugar while you are pregnant.

  Pregnancy Registry: If you take JANUVIA at any time during your pregnancy, talk with your doctor about how you can join the JANUVIA pregnancy registry. The purpose of this registry is to collect information about the health of you and your baby. You can enroll in this registry by calling 1-800-986-8999.
- are breast-feeding or plan to breast-feed. It is not known if JANUVIA will pass into your breast milk. Talk with your doctor about the best way to feed your baby if you are taking JANUVIA.

Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Know the medicines you take. Keep a list of your medicines and show it to your doctor and pharmacist when you get a new medicine.

How should I take JANUVIA?

- Take JANUVIA 1 time each day exactly as your doctor tells you.
- You can take JANUVIA with or without food.
- Your doctor may do blood tests from time to time to see how well your kidneys are working. Your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA based on the results of your blood tests.
- Your doctor may tell you to take JANUVIA along with other diabetes medicines. Low blood sugar can happen more often when JANUVIA is taken with certain other diabetes medicines. See "What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?".
- If you miss a dose, take it as soon as you remember. If you do not remember until it is time for your next dose, skip the missed dose and go back to your regular schedule. Do not take two doses of JANUVIA at the same time.
- If you take too much JANUVIA, call your doctor or local Poison Control Center right away.
- When your body is under some types of stress, such as fever, trauma (such as a car accident), infection or surgery, the amount of diabetes medicine that you need may change. Tell your doctor right away if you have any of these conditions and follow your doctor's instructions.
- Check your blood sugar as your doctor tells you to.
- Stay on your prescribed diet and exercise program while taking JANUVIA.
- Talk to your doctor about how to prevent, recognize and manage low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), high blood sugar (hyperglycemia), and problems you have because of your diabetes.
- Your doctor will check your diabetes with regular blood tests, including your blood sugar levels and your hemoglobin A1C.

What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?

Serious side effects have happened in people taking JANUVIA.

- See "What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?".
- Low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar, such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include:
  - headache
  - drowsiness
  - weakness
  - dizziness
  - confusion
  - irritability
  - hunger
  - fast heart beat
  - sweating
  - feeling jittery
- Serious allergic reactions. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away. See "Who should not take JANUVIA?". Your doctor may give you a medicine for your allergic reaction and prescribe a different medicine for your diabetes.
- Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis

The most common side effects of JANUVIA include:

- upper respiratory infection
- stuffy or runny nose and sore throat
- headache

JANUVIA may have other side effects, including:

- stomach upset and diarrhea
- swelling of the hands or legs, when JANUVIA is used with rosiglitazone (Avandia®). Rosiglitazone is another type of diabetes medicine.

These are not all the possible side effects of JANUVIA. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Tell your doctor if you have any side effect that bothers you, is unusual or does not go away.

Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088.

How should I store JANUVIA?

Store JANUVIA at 68°F to 77°F (20°C to 25°C).

Keep JANUVIA and all medicines out of the reach of children.

General information about the use of JANUVIA

Medicines are sometimes prescribed for purposes that are not listed in Medication Guides. Do not use JANUVIA for a condition for which it was not prescribed. Do not give JANUVIA to other people, even if they have the same symptoms you have. It may harm them.

This Medication Guide summarizes the most important information about JANUVIA. If you would like to know more information, talk with your doctor. You can ask your doctor or pharmacist for additional information about JANUVIA that is written for health professionals. For more information, go to www.JANUVIA.com or call 1-800-622-4477.

What are the ingredients in JANUVIA?

Active ingredient: sitagliptin

Inactive ingredients: microcrystalline cellulose, anhydrous dibasic calcium phosphate, croscarmellose sodium, magnesium stearate, and sodium stearyl fumarate. The tablet film coating contains the following inactive ingredients: polyvinyl alcohol, polyethylene glycol, talc, titanium dioxide, red iron oxide, and yellow iron oxide.

What is type 2 diabetes?

Type 2 diabetes is a condition in which your body does not make enough insulin, and the insulin that your body produces does not work as well as it should. Your body can also make too much sugar. When this happens, sugar (glucose) builds up in the blood. This can lead to serious medical problems.

High blood sugar can be lowered by diet and exercise, and by certain medicines when necessary.

This Medication Guide has been approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

OkCupid just rolled out a bunch of new ways to self-identify Dating. There are now options for those who don't fit inside a box.

OkCupid is being praised for the new additions. / STOCKBYTE

Online daters who have updated their OkCupid accounts recently might have noticed something different in the "About Me" section: a slew of new ways to describe one's gender and sexuality.

Mic.com reports that select users of the popular dating site have the option of identifying as "Demisexual," "Heteroflexible" and "Pansexual" among other terms in the sexual orientation section.

The daters who have been offered the new options can also now choose from 20 words to describe their gender, words that include "Transconforming," "Other" and "Genderfluid."

While the site did not officially announce the new changes, it has been hailed as a welcome change by many blogs.

Options

A growing trend

OkCupid joins Facebook and Match.com on the list of social media sites that have updated their gender options in recent months, perhaps in response to a Change.org petition launched last year demanding that the site update its gender and sexuality options because "these binaries do not fit for all of us."

Give thanks for pro chefs

Feast. This year, skip the prep and cleanup and get Thanksgiving to go.

Not all of us should be cooking a turkey, and stuffing is more complicated that it looks. Whether the kitchen just isn't your forte or you pride yourself on your oven skills but don't have time to put Thanksgiving together this year, we found restaurants offering Turkey Day meals to take home. Go ahead, pretend you made it all yourself — we won't tell.

Main course

The poultry experts at Fette Sau (1208 Frankford Ave., 215-391-4888) will feed the whole family and then some, with a big bird, plus gravy, sweet potato mash, green beans with onions and stuffing with hot Italian sausage for 10 to 12 hungry people. Or, you can order just the turkey and gravy.

Jones (700 Chestnut St., 215-223-5663) is offering a classic T'giving feast, with a whole roasted turkey, stuffing, sweet potato mash, glazed carrots, cranberry relish, pumpkin roll and pecan pie. Order by Nov. 25.

Spending the holiday down by the shore? Guy Fieri's Chophouse in Bally's is offering a takeout menu. Pick up a fried or roasted turkey or brown sugar–cured Virginia ham, plus giblet gravy, orange-cranberry sauce, veggies and sides. Order by 3 p.m. on Nov. 25.

Why wait for Thursday? Jake's Sandwich Board (122 S. 12th St., 215-922-0102) already brought back its turducken sandwich for the season: cranberry spread, apple-sausage stuffing, Creole-seasoned turkey, duck and chicken, hash browns and brown gravy. Wash it down with Jake's pumpkin pie shake.

On the side

Harvest Seasonal Grill & Wine Bar's locations in University City, Glen Mills and North Wales are cooking up family-sized sides, so you can focus on the main course. Order by Sunday and pick up on Nov. 26. The options, made with locally sourced ingredients, include butternut squash soup, salad, green bean casserole, mac 'n' cheese, sweet potato mash and garlic mashed potatoes.

Let Davio's cook the turkey this year. / FELICIA PERRETTI

Another option

Dine out

Not enough room to host the whole family? Reserve a table at Davio's (111 S. 17th St, 215-563-4810). The Rittenhouse restaurant has a prix fixe menu, and the chefs will even carve your turkey tableside.

Get a taste of turducken at Jake's.
PROVIDED

Farmers market

Give back

While you're shopping for Thanksgiving dinner at Fitler Square Farmers' Market (23rd and Pine) on Saturday or Headhouse Farmers' Market (Second and Lombard) on Sunday, pick up a few extra veggies and donate them to Green Light Pantries, part of the Greater Philadelphia Coalition Against Hunger, working with The Food Trust.

And for dessert

Don't forget the pie

Magpie Artisan Pie Boutique (1622 South St.) is baking four pies designed to complement Thanksgiving fare. Choose from pumpkin praline, butterscotch bourbon, chocolate coffee cinnamon pecan and caramel apple. Order by Saturday.

THEATER

'QED'

Thursday through Dec. 14
Lantern Theater Company
923 Ludlow St.
$30-$39, 215-829-0395
www.lanterntheater.org
This play shows us a day in the life of the colorful and charismatic physicist Richard Feynman, a Noble Prize winner and one of the major public faces of science in the 20th century.

'The (Curious Case of the) Watson Intelligence'

Through Sunday
Off-Broad Street Theater
1636 Sansom St.
$15-$25, 215-563-1100
www.azukatheatre.org
This is your last chance to catch the Philly premiere of this unusual play by Madeline George, which ties together three story lines concerning several beings named Watson — fictional and nonfictional, human and machine, famous and obscure, historical and contemporary.

DRINK

Artful Tasting

Friday, 7 p.m.
Barnes Foundation
2025 Ben Franklin Pkwy.
$40, 215-278-7200
www.barnesfoundation.org
This evening promises a very appropriate pairing of an absinthe tasting and a talk on early 20th century art — appropriate since absinthe was a popular drink for bohemian Parisians in those days. Its reputation for hallucinogenic properties is pure myth, but it's certainly a unique drink, both for its taste and its association with such legendary figures as Oscar Wilde and Vincent van Gogh.

ART

Thomas Chimes:

Through Dec. 13
Locks Gallery
600 Washington Square South
Free, 215-629-1000
www.locksgallery.com
Highlighting certain works from the highly intellectual ouvre of the late Philadelphia artist Thomas Chimes, with a focus on his interests in physics, alchemy, geometry and metals, this exhibit includes some of his famous "white paintings" that have never been shown.

DANCE

ANDRES D'ELIA

Soledad Barrio and Noche Flamenca

Thursday through Saturday
Annenberg Center, 3680 Walnut St.; $30-$75; 215-898-3900, www.annenbergcenter.org
Straight from Spain, this large flamenco ensemble, including both male and female dancers, has an especially fiery energy and intensity, even within a genre defined by these characteristics. They're no innovators or fusion experimenters, promising instead an authentic, traditional flamenco experience. They claim to be Spain's most successful touring flamenco company, and it's not hard to believe.

Neil Wolf: Depth in Color

Through Dec. 6
Art on the Avenue
3830 Lancaster Ave.
Free, 215-662-1074
www.artonave.org
Neil Wolf is a self-taught artist, and his abstract paintings have the sort of unmediated emotional power one expects from a lack of formal training — power, yes, but also deeply nuanced. His densely layered fog banks of color convey the simultaneous calm and drama of a thick, overcast sky.

COMEDY

Manatees with Rocketry

Friday, 8 p.m. to 12 a.m.
3rd and Girard Lounge
1176 N. Third St.
Free, 21+, 267-784-3078
www.3rdandgirard.com
Can't decide if you want to go dancing or to a comedy club? Don't compromise! Do both at this event, with sets from comedians followed by a multi-genre selection of DJs including San Francisco's Matt Haze, Eitch and Philly's Seanicus (also your host for the evening).

MUSIC

Michi Wiancko and Judd Greenstein

Sunday, noon
World Cafe Live
3025 Walnut St.
$10-$15, 215-222-1400
www.ticketfly.com
Five-string violinist Michi Wiancko and keyboardist/electronic musician Judd Greenstein create an unusual sound, drawing together influences from classical, pop, folk, jazz and electronica. Wiancko's violin has a beautifully deep tone, and she keeps the full range of her instrument's sonic possibility at her disposal as she monologues through many moods over Greenstein's sparse but evocative backgrounds.

PROVIDED

FESTIVALS

Ugly Sweater Adoption Extravaganza

Saturday, 3 p.m. to 8 p.m.
Franklin Square
Sixth and Race streets
Free, 215-629-4026
www.historicphiladelphia.org
Part of the Franklin Square Holiday Festival, this event includes an ugly sweater contest for dogs, canine agility performances by Zoom Room Philadelphia and plenty of adorable pets for adoption. Stay to catch the Electrical Spectacle Holiday Light Show.

Repair Fair

Saturday, noon to 4 p.m.
Shissler Rec Center
1800 Blair St.
Free, bendavis@phillyfixersguild.org
www.phillyfixersguild.org
Need something fixed? Bring it to the Repair Fair, where the members of the Philly Fixers Guild pride themselves on being able to fix most household objects, just like you thought your dad could — that is, until he failed you. Of course, they won't be able to heal your childhood disappointments, but they might know what's wrong with your microwave.

MOVIES

La Dolce Vita

Thursday, 7 p.m.
International House
3701 Chestnut St.
$7 to $9, 215-387-5125
www.ihousephilly.org
Italian director Frederico Fellini captured the vanity of hedonistic, materialist modern Europe in his 1960 classic "La Dolce Vita"— meaning, with considerable sarcasm, "the sweet life." Critics have compared protagonist Marcello's wanderings through various facets of Italian society to Dante's journey through Hell in the "Divine Comedy" and pegged its seven chapters to the Seven Deadly Sins.

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Home improvements or repair will end up costing more than you anticipate. Budget carefully.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Take a breather. Confusion and mistrust will develop if you aren't precise. If you are torn in several directions, find a quiet place.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. You need to put your uncanny insight into play and develop a sound business plan. Conditions are right for you to make a good investment.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. A group venture will turn in your favor if you step forward and take control. Consider all your options.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Take a close look at your relationships with others. Pay attention to the signals you are getting so that you know who is on your team.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Keep your emotions hidden. Make your point with facts and figures, not aggressive behavior. You will get the desired results if you maintain calm.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Someone will try to throw you off course. Keep forging ahead, no matter what happens. Your original plan is the one to follow.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. A new connection will develop through an unexpected source. Your fun-loving nature and winning ways will dazzle everyone.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Your employment prospects are looking up. Networking will bring you gains. Tackle an emotional issue that has been keeping you up at night.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. You will meet with stern opposition if you try to impose your will on others. Compromise will be necessary.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You must make concessions if it will help you keep the peace. If you are asked to help out, do so willingly. Making a fuss will be detrimental.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Emotional matters will have you on edge. Step back. Find a project that you can work on without interference. EUGENIA LAST

A better solution

The immigration problem is not exclusive to people who cross our southern border illegally. A diverse group of families chooses illegal immigration for myriad reasons. What's more, many of these immigrants came legally and overstayed their visas. They want to come out of the shadows and contribute more to our country. While not encouraging people to break laws, we need a thoughtful, permanent solution to this complex problem. LATRINA STOKES-SMITH, VIA EMAIL

Magic pills won't fix you

Re: 'Diet pills are making you fat' (Metro, Nov. 19)
If you read most diet pills, the side panel says "in addition to healthy diet and lifestyle." If you had a healthy diet and lifestyle, you wouldn't need the diet pills to begin with. I'm honestly still kind of shocked the people believe in a magic pill. It's as good as snake oil. If you are going to diet, it needs to be a lifestyle change, it's not just popping a pill or some other food item every day. Like I said, if you had a healthy diet and lifestyle, you wouldn't need the pill. I'm currently dieting myself, and it's all fresh, clean eating in the right proportions — no pills. W.D. Lindros, LeClair proud to be honored as a duo

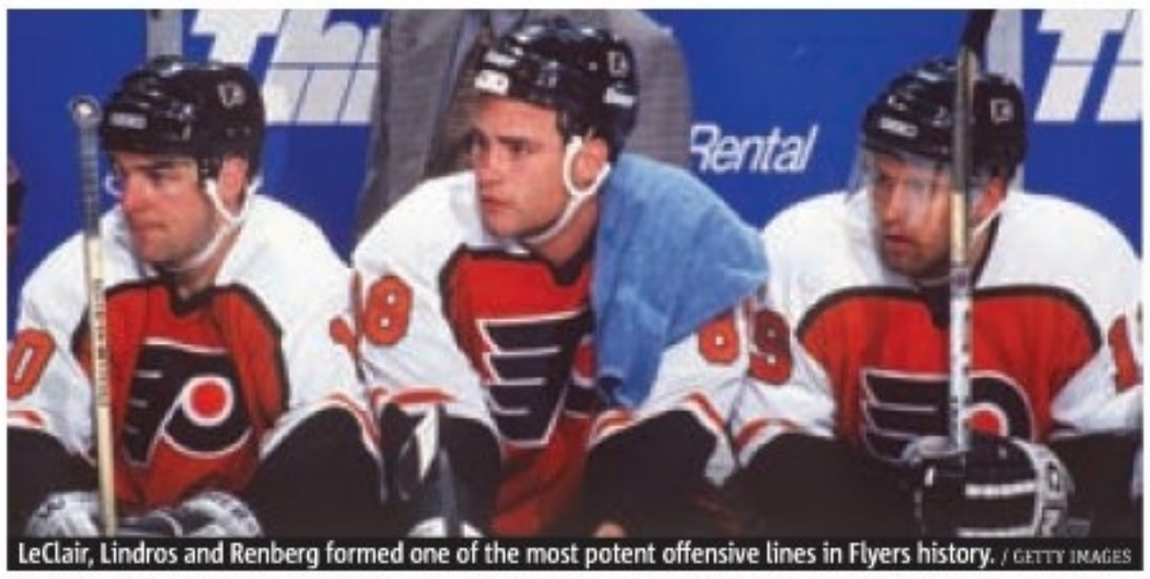
NHL. Thursday night, two-thirds of the legendary Legion of Doom will take its rightful place in the Flyers Hall of Fame.



LeClair, Lindros and Renberg formed one of the most potent offensive lines in Flyers history. / GETTY IMAGES

After so many battles together, and a special return to the ice during the Flyers alumni game at the Winter Classic in 2012, John LeClair and Eric Lindros will be honored together at the Wells Fargo Center — as they should be.

"To me it's great," LeClair said. "Eric has been such a big part of my career and to have him right there next to me with everything is quite immense."

While Lindros eventually left Philadelphia, and then the game of hockey due to post-concussion syndrome, he has found success in business back in Toronto. LeClair still lives locally, raising his kids in Haverford and consulting for his old agency.

While both may lack the credentials to make the Pro Hockey Hall of Fame, their accomplishments in Philly are hard to argue with.

Quoted

"I really wish we could have won a cup here in Philly because there were some great people, some great teams ..."

John LeClair

"I mean Philadelphia is where I played my best hockey as a pro," Lindros said. "I really enjoyed it. There were countless moments that I recall and have extremely fond memories of. It was a great environment to play in."

One of those moments came in February 1997, when the Lindros, LeClair and Mikael Renberg line set a record, recording 16 points.

"John, Mikael and I were a pretty special group," Lindros said. "We set up one another and we certainly enjoyed playing with one another and being together on and off the ice."

Of course, the Legion of Doom's resume is lacking one important piece of hardware — despite their best efforts and a trip to the Finals against Detroit in 1997, LeClair, Lindros and company were unable to win a Stanley Cup.

"It's a huge disappointment," LeClair said. "There were many years that I thought we had a team that were more capable of winning the Stanley Cup."

Villanova's Ennis poised to break out, like his bro

NCAA. Dylan Ennis is coming into his own with the Wildcats in the footsteps of his NBA brother Tyler.

Growing up in Toronto, the Ennis brothers were taught at an early age about the benefits of having patience. If things aren't going your way now, keep learning and eventually your opportunity will come.

Before Dylan Ennis steps onto the court when Villanova faces Bucknell, he'll quickly glance into the stands to see his little brother Tyler — last year's first-round draft choice of the Phoenix Suns — in the house. Then they'll probably both smile knowing that patience has been rewarded.

After transferring from Rice — which was simply too far from home — Dylan struggled for the Wildcats last season, averaging 5.1 points while shooting just 41 percent. But after spending the summer on campus to learn coach Jay Wright's "concepts," he's already making an impact for the No. 12 Wildcats.

Stepping into the departed James Bell's spot in the lineup, the 6-foot-2 Ennis is Nova's leading scorer (14.5) through two games. More important, he has a clearer picture of his role.

"I never thought with James leaving 'there's a starting spot open,'" said the Ennis, 22, who left Toronto to begin his high school career in the Bronx, before shifting to Chicago's prestigious Lake Forest Academy. "Last year was a tough year for me, not only basketball-wise but thinking the concepts. Summer really helped. Coach took me aside and showed me what I have to work on. He said, 'We're gonna rely on you now.'"

Just as the Ennis brothers have always relied on each other.

Last year it was Tyler picking up Dylan with daily phone calls. Now, it's come full circle, with Tyler buried on the Suns' depth charts to the point he recently was sent to the D-League to get some playing time before being recalled.

Jay Wright has confidence in his new starting point guard, Dylan Ennis. / GETTY IMAGES

Quoted

"We understand it's a long road. We're just there to support each other. We love basketball, but we're brothers first." Dylan Ennis

He returns just in time for a road trip that brings Phoenix here to face the Sixers on Friday. But first, a family reunion.

"I'm going to his game. He's coming to mine," smiled Dylan, a redshirt junior, said about his brother. "It'll be good to spend some time with him. Tyler's a patient guy. He understands he has to wait his turn, but when his name is called he's definitely gonna be ready. Last year, he picked me up when I was down. This year I pick him up when he's down."

It's been a long time coming for Dylan Ennis, who's out to prove Mom and Dad knew what they were talking about. It will all be worth the wait.

Looking forward

Villanova can't take Bucknell too lightly

Nearly a decade has passed since No. 14-seeded Bucknell shocked No. 3 Kansas in the opening round of the 2005 NCAA tournament. But that doesn't mean Villanova's Jay Wright still doesn't have a healthy respect for the 1-1 Bison when they face his No. 12 ranked Wildcats Thursday night.

Especially since it happens to be Wright's alma mater and since the Wildcats had to come from behind in the second half to beat another Patriot League member, Lehigh, 77-66 in their opener.

"It's fun, because there's a lot of Bucknell alumni in this area," said Wright, who insists his 2-0 club won't be looking ahead to VCU, whom they'll meet next week in Brooklyn. "That team last year was really good. They've got a good young team and we really struggled with Lehigh. So we just focus on the next game."

Villanova has won the last eight times they've played, the most recent in 2010.

BLOW PAST COMPETITION BY FACTORING IN WEATHER

Winter is coming. Or, if you live in Buffalo, it's already here. Either way, weather is inevitably going to affect NFL games the rest of the way. But all conditions are not created equal as we attempt to project impact. What to look for:

Wind is king

Ask any NFL quarterback or coach what bothers the pass game most and they won't say rain, snow or cold. They'll say wind. We also have data on this, as winds over 15 mph have been proven to sharply decrease the always-telling yards per attempt (YPA) statistic. Wind speed is simple to monitor on Sunday mornings while setting lineups and gives us a hidden edge. Borderline QBs and WRs just can't be used with sustained 15-plus mph winds — unless you have Tom Brady (see below).

Tom Brady is, arguably, the greatest bad-weather quarterback of all time. / GETTY IMAGES

Know your arm

Of course, there are some quarterbacks who fare better in poor conditions. The aforementioned Brady is perhaps the greatest bad-weather quarterback ever and he put that on display in Week 9, ripping through strong winds and the Broncos for 333 yards and four touchdowns. Quarterbacks with weaker arms, such as Peyton Manning, Philip Rivers or Matt Ryan, come with more red flags. Expectations need to be tempered when they're outside braving winter elements.

On the defensive

Slick conditions are great for producing fumbles and crooked plays, and even cold temps can really bother some quarterbacks. Mark Sanchez, a California kid, went to sub-freezing temps at Lambeau last week and predictably melted down, leading to a massive day for Green Bay's D/ST.

Pickups of the week

Here are the best adds for Week 12:

- Coby Fleener, TE, Colts: Fleener will get a big uptick if Dwayne Allen (ankle) sits.
- Isaiah Crowell, RB, Browns: Crowell fumbled in Week 11 and CLE went right back to him, signifying he's ahead of Terrance West.
- Latavius Murray, RB, Raiders: If the 0-10 Raiders have any football sense, they'll see what the size/speed freak Murray has down the stretch.
